The National Student Loan Data System (NSLDS) indicates one or more federal student loans have been discharged due to a disability. Before you can receive additional student loans, you must:

Provide a physician's certification (on physician's letterhead) that you are able to engage in "substantial gainful activity" such as working, and

Sign below affirming the new Federal Stafford and/or Federal Perkins Student Loan for which you are applying cannot later be discharged for any present impairment (unless your impairment deteriorates so that you are again totally and permanently disabled), and

You must reaffirm previously discharged loans (if you are borrowing within 3 years of onset of disability).

If you are still interested in a student loan, submit the above requests and complete the following.

I affirm the new Federal Student loan(s) cannot be cancelled on the basis of any present impairment unless my condition substantially deteriorates.

I hereby certify that all information reported on this form and any attachments hereto is true, complete, and accurate. False statements or misrepresentation will be cause for denial, reduction, withdrawal, and/or repayment of financial aid.
